WHAT TO DO IF . . .

(Helpful Tidbits for Pet Owners)

You are having behavior issues with a dog or cat.

- Never hit the animal for bad behavior.
- Try to understand the animal's perspective.
- Try to get to the bottom of the issue, like what could be making the animal behave this way. You may only need to make some simple changes in your pet's environment.
- Seek help of a behavioral trainer or pet help line, like some of those in this guide book. Many local animal rescues or organizations may also offer helpful advice and they can give you a list of resources.

You encounter a strange dog.

- Do not approach the dog or try to pet the dog.
- Avoid direct eye contact with the dog.
- Do not run or scream, remain motionless if possible.
- If knocked over, roll into a ball and lie still.
- Report stray dogs displaying unusual behavior.
- Do not disturb dog that is sleeping, eating, or caring for puppies.
- Allow dog to sniff you and get to know you before attempting to pet it.

You find a dog or cat.

- Try to hold onto the animal and look for owner, assume animal is lost.
- Look for ID such as dog tags or take to Vet to be scanned for microchip (free at any Vet).
- File a "found report" with the municipal animal shelter and ask them to check their lost reports. (Animal Services Center of Mesilla Valley in Las Cruces area.)

- Post ads in Newspapers (most are free to post lost & found ads).
- Print flyers and hang in the vicinity the animal was found, and at all Vet offices.
- Try to find the animal a new home or rescue yourself if not claimed after a couple weeks because our shelter is usually overburdened with animals that don't always get adopted.

You lose a dog or cat.

- Begin searching for your pet immediately, be persistent and don't give up easily.
- Cats usually stay close to home, especially indoor cats, so look close to your home in all places a cat may be hiding.
- Friendly dogs usually do not travel far, so knock on doors and hang flyers in your area.
- Hang flyers at Vet offices.
- Contact and file a "lost report" with the municipal animal shelter (Animal Services Center of the Mesilla Valley, (575) 382-0018) and go there and search yourself every couple days.
- Post ads in all newspapers, most are free to post lost and found pets.
- Check online pet-related resources, like Craigslist, and facebook pet sites like Lost and Found Pets Las Cruces, Pets for Adoption Las Cruces, Southern New Mexico Pets, Dog Cruces, etc.

You need to find a new home for your pet/s.

- The last thing to do is relinquish your pet/s to the animal shelter, try to find a home for your pet/s yourself, or contact an animal rescue and ask for their help or advice. Our animal shelters are overburdened and your pet/s may not be adopted, especially if they are older. If the reason is due to behavior issues, try contacting a trainer first, they are usually not too expensive and can help you resolve all issues with your pet. You can also contact pet help lines for advice, like HSSNM at 575-523-8020. Action Programs for Animals (APA) might let you join them in one of their many weekend adoptions, call and/or leave a message at 575-644-0505 to schedule a date and time. Do not post your animals for free, this makes them susceptible to be adopted by someone who could harm them; always ask a small re-homing fee.

- If you find a home for your pet/s, be sure to do a home-check/visit, and always get all information possible, plus do a couple follow-ups to ensure your pet/s safety.

You think your pet ingested something toxic.

- Contact a Vet immediately or Call the National Poison Control Center at 1-888-426-4435.
- Some human foods can be toxic to your animal, here is a few foods to avoid: alcoholic beverages, caffeine, chocolate, chicken or turkey bones, grapes, raisins, onions, nuts, and any medications, just to name a few. You can do an online search to get a complete list.
- Other toxic items around your home are as follows: antifreeze (fatal), bait for rodents, batteries, car care products, house cleaners, oils, nicotine products, pesticides, plants, just to name a few. Again, you can do an online search for more.
